FIRE ACTIVITY:

The Dollar Lake Fire is currently 13,449 acres and 0% containment.

Firefighters completed a lot of good work yesterday, including constructing dozer line and conducting burn-out operations to protect the Red Cliff Bible Camp. Numerous other objectives were accomplished, including cleaning up hot spots in both the interior of the fire as well as along the fire line, preparing structure protection around the lodge, and beginning to tie control lines into anchor points.

Operations for today are looking to take advantage of forecasted favorable weather to continue cleaning up problem areas and building more containment and contingency lines.

WEATHER:

Scattered showers and thunderstorms will continue today, with increased wetting rain chances in the afternoon. However, this will also bring an outflow wind and lightning threat to the fire. Wednesday and Thursday will see the best chances for rain as showers and thunderstorms become more widespread. In total, 0.5 to 1 inch of rain is possible throughout the week.
