Today will be the last day for Sierra Front/Nevada Team 5 on the Dollar Lake Fire. Saturday at 7:00 a.m. Wyoming Team 2, a Type 3 incident management team, will take command of the fire.

FIRE ACTIVITY:

The Dollar Lake Fire is currently 13,449 acres and 22% containment.

Firefighters continue to increase containment on the west and north sides of the fire, securing more line and mopping up. On the south side, crews are finalizing defenses around the Red Cliff Bible Camp, tying the containment line into the road system northeast of the camp and the meadows between Green River Lakes Road and the wilderness boundary. The crews on the south side of the fire also reconnoitered 2.6 miles of along the eastern end of the southern fire area. On the northeast side, crews are securing line and mopping up, while on the east side of the fire, crews are tying containment line into the Green River Lake.

WEATHER:

Thursday saw additional showers move over the fire, though accumulations were light. This follows Wednesday when monsoonal moisture brought around an inch of rain to the fire. On Friday, chances for rain decrease as drier air moves over the region. However, there will still be a lower thunderstorm threat which could produce lightning and strong outflow wind gusts. Otherwise, Friday will see slightly higher winds out of the northwest, with humidity dropping much lower than recent days into the 30 percent range. Very similar conditions are expected Saturday, though with temperatures a little warmer and humidity slightly lower. This warming and drying trend is expected to continue into early next week.
