To: 2024 Rocky Mountain Area Priority Trainees
From: Randy Jacks, Geographic Area Training Representative (GATR)
Subject: Rocky Mountain Area Priority Trainee Program (RMPTP)

The 2024 Rocky Mountain Area Priority Trainee Application Form is now available to trainees located in the Rocky Mountain Area. The RMPTP is an annual application process that will be open February 1st to April 5th, 2024, and is located at the following link:
2024 RMA Priority Trainee Program Application

The RMPTP primary mission is to establish a uniform process to identify, promote, mobilize, and assist in the development needs of the interagency workforce within the Rocky Mountain Area. The program has been established to address critical position shortages and support succession planning within the Rocky Mountain Area as well as to assist in building capacity for Incident Management Teams (IMTs), dispatch, and national incident response.

The process in which the trainees will be prioritized will be availability, percentage of position task book completed, and employment status as indicated in the application form.

The process to participate in the program is as follows:

- Trainees will ensure supervisor support to participate in the program.
- Trainees will work with local unit training officers to complete their form. Trainees identified and applying for the program should be available for 1 or more assignments throughout the season. Trainees can submit separate application forms for a maximum of two priority trainee positions.
- Zone training representatives will ensure supervisor support and maintain a zone PT spreadsheet. (Zone training representatives can be found by logging into the Wildland Fire Learning Portal, Rocky Mountain Area, Zones tab (you can choose to log in as a Guest)): RMA Zone Training Reps
- Trainees will need to maintain their availability status in IROC.

The positions included in the Rocky Mountain Priority Trainee Program are:
